FEMA Region X All-Hands

FEMA Regional Administrator Ken Murphy, sworn in to his new position on 29 June 2010, hosted his first "All-Hands" meeting at the Federal Regional Center in Bothell, Washington on 7 July. No stranger to FEMA Region X (he worked very closely with the agency during his eleven-year tenure as Oregon Emergency Management Director, and as National Emergency Management Association President, became intimately familiar with FEMA offices across the country) Murphy shared his leadership philosophy and guiding principles. "I already know what a strong region I've got," said Murphy. "My challenge will be to provide the tools and resources to make you even better."

FEMA Deputy Administrator Richard Serino congratulates Kenneth Murphy (L) after swearing-in Murphy as FEMA's Region 10 Administrator. Murphy, most recently Oregon's Director of Emergency Management and past President of the National Emergency Management Association, took the oath in the presence of Region 10's state emergency management directors and FEMA Region 10 leadership who were attending the annual Western Regional Emergency Management Advisory Committee meeting.
